THE AMERICAN MISSIONARY.

VOL. XLVI.

FEBRUARY, 1892.

No. 2.

American Missionary Association.

TO OUR FRIENDS.

Three-quarters of the space in this issue is taken up with a catalogue of your churches, schools, pastors, teachers and other missionaries. This simple list shows, without other rhetoric, how immense your work is. These men and women must be supported in their work. We have commissioned them in the faith that your gifts this year would equal if not exceed those of last year. We have trusted you. You love Christ's work, and will support it.

But you are behind with your usual gifts. Your work needs more, not less generous gifts. We have had to retrench at every point. We have to give up openings of great promise, as well as refuse enlargements of old work. Even so, we are badly behind on this first quarter, our contributions having been $16,000 less in the past three months than in the first quarter of our last fiscal year. This is a very serious condition of things. We commit it to your action. We can only spend what you give. If you do not give the money, we, your agents, must cut down the work or dismiss your missionaries. We will not believe you want us to do it. We have more faith in you, and in the Spirit of God in your hearts. This is not our appeal, but the appeal of the men and women whose names fill these pages. Unless there be a speedy and adequate increase in the support of the work of the American Missionary Association, we must reduce it or go in debt. We do not believe you wish us to do either.

THE WAY HE DID IT.

Not long since the pastor of one of our churches gave out notice that on the next Sunday the collection would be taken for the —— Society. A member of the church present had been in the habit of giving $5 annually to that Society, and yet he had been troubled with the conviction that he ought to give more to that and to all the other missionary societies, but in all appeals the exhortation was that the subscriptions should be doubled or trebled, and not feeling able to do that he had continued to put in the usual five dollar bill. But this time he determined on a "new departure," and he added one dollar to the five, making an increase of 20 per cent. He assures us that he feels so good over it that he is determined to make the new plan "go all around."

We venture to say in behalf of the missionary societies that an addition of twenty per cent. on all donations, large and small, would be most welcome, or at least that such a per cent. actually added, is vastly better than the vague feeling that the donor should give double while he really does not increase at all.

A GOVERNOR'S TESTIMONY.

We take pleasure in printing the subjoined extract from the annual message of Governor Stone of Mississippi, and we put in italics some of the words to give just emphasis to so strong a testimonial from so influential a source :

TOUGALOO UNIVERSITY.

"For many years the Legislature has made an annual appropriation in aid of the normal department of the Tougaloo University, and I do not hesitate to express the belief that no appropriation ever made for the education of the colored race of Mississippi has yielded as good returns, and if not prohibited by section 208 of the constitution, I should cheerfully and earnestly recommend the usual appropriation."

WHAT A SOUTHERN NEWSPAPER SAYS OF THE A. M. A.

There is no agency of education in this country that more wisely dispenses its strength in money and ability than the American Missionary Association. It has nothing whatever to do with politics or sectionalism, and its employees are strictly bound to the work of education for which they are employed.

Their mission is one that every thinking person must endorse.

It is to make boys and girls good, healthy-minded, self-supporting and self-respecting men and woman. It is to make good citizens out of very raw material and under circumstances of perverseness, growing out of dense ignorance, that is often very perplexing and discouraging. But an enriching hope inspires the noble men and women teachers, and they are beginning to realize a great reward in the ability manifested by many of their former pupils to take up the work of education themselves and prosecute it for the benefit of their race. They are also entering the mission work with earnestness, and are proving themselves worthy the efforts made for them by the missionaries in schools and churches of this noble-inspired and God-blessed Association. To make the humblest better, to lift the erring out of the slough of despond, to help the aspiring soul and encourage weary and toil-worn workers, is surely a Christ-like work—a beneficent, unselfish and glorious work. This is the work of the American Missionary Association, and, without disparagement of what else it does, it may be claimed that it is its best work, the work that is nearest the standard of the Master.—Memphis Daily Commercial.

MR. HAND'S FUNERAL.

Mr. Daniel Hand died Dec. 17th, 1891. The funeral services were held at his late residence, in Guilford, Conn.; the interment was at Hammonassett (Madison), the early Connecticut residence of his ancestors. The exercises were conducted by his pastor, Rev. G. W. Banks, of the Third Congregational Church, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Andrews, of the Episcopal Church.

Mr. Hand was born in 1801, and his life nearly spanned the nineteenth century. He was descended from an honorable line of Puritan ancestors, and in his life he was a true representative of their enterprise, integrity of character, and Christian benevolence. At the age of eighteen he went South, where his active business life was spent. He was successful. At the close of the war he came North, leaving his business wholly in the hands of his business partner, Mr. G. W. Williams, who had protected the property against an attempt in the courts to confiscate it, and who in 1886 came North, and rendered to Mr. Hand his full share, amounting to nearly half a million dollars.

Mr. Hand, having been early deprived by death of wife and children, decided to devote a share of his large fortune to benevolent purposes. At one time he intended to make bequests to some Northern colleges, but at length, recalling the fact that his property was accumulated in the South, and knowing so well the needs of the ignorant Negroes, he turned his attention towards them.

The well-known and magnificent gift of $1,000,894.25, October 24th, 1888, to the American Missionary Association, for the benefit of the colored people of the Southern States, was the result. We understand that his will, after liberal gifts to relatives, provides that the residuary portion shall be devoted to augmenting the "DANIEL HAND FUND FOR THE COLORED PEOPLE."

The principal address on the funeral occasion was made by Rev. Mr. Banks. Secretaries Strieby and Beard were present, and by invitation added a few remarks. We append a summary of the very appropriate

ADDRESS OF REV. G. W. BANKS.

Those of you who were acquainted with Mr. Hand know that it was not his habit to speak with any freedom of his religious views, much less of his religious experiences. But some two years since, at a time when he seemed to himself and to others to be at death's door, in a conversation which it was my privilege, as his pastor, to have with him, he broke over his wonted reserve in this respect, and spoke very freely, and yet calmly, of the approaching event, saying ; that he had no fear of death, but would welcome its coming as the messenger of his Heavenly Father ; that the Word of God had been his daily companion and guide through his long life ; and that he rested his hope of salvation entirely on the merits and death of our Saviour Jesus Christ.

In the few moments that we spend here in the presence of the dead, three lines of thought may come to our minds. First, the worth of the influences that come to us from an upright, God-fearing ancestry. The influences which moulded Mr. Hand's character came from the eighteenth and the seventeenth centuries. His ancestry represented the very best elements of the Puritan character, in its industry and frugality, honor and integrity, righteousness and Godliness.

In the second place, the value of an honorable life to its own generation. If Mr. Hand's character received its direction from the eighteenth century, it had its development in the nineteenth ; his life, beginning with its first year has been prolonged almost to its close. Of the wonderful progress of the world, during this wonderful century of its history, Mr. Hand has been not merely an intelligent and interested spectator, but has borne an honorable share in the century's and in his country's life and work. With large business capacity and exceptional prosperity, he has in it all exemplified, what so much needs exemplification in these days, the value of honor in business life, and the fact that the strictest honesty is no bar to success.

Nor have his days by any means been absorbed in mere money-getting. The intellectual life kept equal pace with the business life. By a course of solid reading, maintained through all his years, he was fully abreast with the science and literature of the age. And amid it all he found time for earnest Christian work ; during all his active life in the South he was interested and helpful in church and Sunday-school work.

In the third place, Mr. Hand's great life-work will be in the twentieth century. With the love and fear of a patriot for his country, he saw the great danger that threatened it in the mass of ignorance admitted to its citizenship ; with the wisdom of a statesman he saw that the only way to avert this danger was in the diffusion of a Christian education among the colored people of the South ; and with the spirit of a Christian philanthropist, he gave the great benefaction which is to be such an important factor in the uplifting of the freedmen, the prosperity of the South, and the welfare of the whole country.

The generosity of Mr. Hand's gift was equaled by the wisdom displayed in the choice of the agency which should dispense it. Without disparaging other organizations doing a similar work, it will be admitted by all that the American Missionary Association, as it was the earliest, has been the most efficient agency, and promises to continue such, in helping the freed-men to a Christian education. A grand trust, in faithful hands, to benefit generations yet unborn !

Receiving a grand inheritance from the past, Mr. Hand has faithfully used it in the present, and transmitted it in untold blessings to the future. As the years roll on, and hundreds and thousands, yes, if God will, hundreds of thousands of Christ's poor receive this helpful uplift to a noble life, the name of Daniel Hand shall shine brighter and brighter, as one of the great benefactors of our country ; and down through the ages shall it be said of him, as of the first man who ever died, "He being dead yet speaketh."

NOTES FROM NEW ENGLAND.

BY DISTRICT SECRETARY C. J. RYDER, BOSTON, MASS.

The evolution of an American Missionary collection is illustrated in the history of a Massachusetts church. The following is the record of contributions to the A. M. A. for five years : 1887, $36 ; 1888, $44 ; 1889, $112 ; 1890, $84 ; 1891, $180.90. This is an increase of nearly six hundred per cent. in five years. In the meantime the contributions of the same church to other benevolent societies have shown a wholesome growth. This record emphasizes two facts.

First, that a church may largely increase its benevolent contributions without embarrassment to the local expenses of the church. This church was never more prosperous than it is to-day. To give stimulates giving. In the second place, this record emphasizes the value of an occasional visit from the secretary of a society. The jump from $44 to $112 came in response to the presentation of the work by the Association's representative.

But this also emphasizes the fact that the pastor, if thoroughly aroused and thrilled with the importance of this great missionary work, can do better than any secretary. The splendid collection for 1891, amounting to $180. came in response to the earnest plea of the pastor of the church. This is as it should be. And it is almost invariably true. A pastor stands on vantage ground with his own people. His personal endorsement of any society is of more value than the endorsement of a stranger, no matter what his official relation may be. Whenever a pastor is absent from his church on the "Missionary Sunday" it is at a sacrifice of missionary interests. All hail ! to the pastor of this generous New England church for his excellent leadership, and to the people for their magnificent response !

I quote the following from the Congregationalist of Nov. 26th :

"It is a sign of the times when a gentleman's club, formed for social and literary ends, devotes its weekly meeting to a consideration of a topic closely related to the missionary work of our denomination.

"The Thursday Club, in Brookline, listened on the evening of November 19th to a unique and interesting historical sketch of the mountain people in the South, presented by Col. C. A. Hopkins, a prominent member of Dr. Thomas's church. He set forth in strong light the great value of their services in behalf of freedom during the war of the Revolution and the war of the Rebellion. Secretary C. J. Ryder followed with a brief description of the present condition of the mountain people."

The fact referred to is significant because this Thursday Club is made up of leading professional, literary and business men, and the interest they manifested in the carefully prepared paper of Col. Hopkins was a most hopeful prophecy as to the future of our mountain work.

A club of ladies in Newton have recently listened to an interesting paper prepared by Mrs. Dr. Calkins concerning our mountain field, and on the 17th of the month the "Melrose Woman's Club," of which Mrs. Livermore is a leading member, invited the New England representative of the A. M. A. to address them upon the "Highlanders of America." Indeed, there is special interest in this phase of our missionary work. Many will listen, and are interested in the Highlanders, who are not especially thrilled by a discussion of the Indian or Negro problem. These mountain people have a history that they have no reason to be ashamed of, and their splendid record during the war of the Rebellion appeals to the hearts of the G. A. R. men, and makes their pulses beat with patriotic fervor. We ought to have money enough this year given, in addition to the current income, to double our mountain work, with all these influences at work for us.

MEETING OF EDUCATORS OF COLORED YOUTH.

The Nashville meeting of this Association was the largest and most successful one since its organization. Prof. J. M. Gregory, in the chair.

The churches in which the meetings were held were crowded at every session, and great interest and enthusiasm was manifested by the citizens of Nashville and the delegates who came from almost all parts of the country, several Northern, and every Southern state being represented.

The State government, by its adjutant-general, the mayor of Nashville, State and City Superintendents of Education, were present. Among the distinguished men who gave addresses were: Bishops Fitzgerald and Mallalieu of the M. E. Church; Rev. A. F. Beard, D.D., Secretary of the American Missionary Association; Dr. J. C. Hartzell, of the Freedmen's Aid Society; Bishop Arnett, of the A. M. E. Church. Most of the presidents of colleges for colored youth and many eminent educators and divines also made addresses or read papers.

Great unanimity of feeling and opinion was manifested between the educators from schools of the various denominations. Arrangements were made for a summer meeting in August.

The next Annual meeting of the Association will be held at Wilmington, N. C.

ITEMS.

News has just reached us of the death of Rev. H. S. Williams, pastor of our church at Athens, Ala. He died on January 9th. The principal of the school in sending us the notice says of him: "His life was pure and beautiful. He was a faithful and devoted pastor. His people loved and trusted him."

Secretary Beard, who is at present in the South, sends us this item:

The New Decatur Plymouth Congregational Church was dedicated yesterday, January 2d; they have raised here the last year $1,800. It is now the leading church in the city. Thirty-six members were added last year. Yesterday was freezing cold, but the house was packed.

The new Normal School at Orange Park, Florida, was dedicated January 11, with appropriate exercises. After an introductory statement by the principal, the sermon was preached by Secretary Beard, and the prayer of dedication was offered by Rev. S. F. Gale. There was a large attendance of people from near and from far.
